

Dr. Frederick H. G. Holck was a member and former Chair of Clevelar State University's then-Department of Religious Studies.

Dr. Holck was born in Neuenberg Germany. He studied Philosophy at University of Heidelberg and the University of Tübingen and received his PhD in Comparative Religiors (mma cum laud) from the University of Salzburg in 1954. He taught at varisouniversities throughout the world-including the University of Helsinki, Peshawar University (Pakistan), a the University of Saskatchewan—before coming to the United States i 1963 and eventually becoming a U.S. citizen (1968).

He joined the CSU faculty in 1966, deserved as Interim Chair of the Departments of Philosophy and Redigi(1968-70) and Chair of Religious Studies from 1970-80. He later served Director of CSU's Extended Campus College until his retirement in 1985.

Dr. Holck's wide-ranging research intests, centering especially on the religions of Asia, are reflected this various publications. He authored articles in German and English on asceticism in ancient India, and was editor of Death and Eastern Religion ($974) and co-editor of thics in World Religions (1987). His subsequent intesten grapho-psychology led to his founding of the American Intesten Grapho-Psychology in 1981.

Dr. Holck was also an ordained Anglin Priest, and served at St. Luke's Anglican Church in Landrum, Sou@arolina after his retirement from Cleveland State. Dr. Holck lived a trulgmarkable life of nearly 93 years, and is remembered fondly by his friends and former colleagues.

E Dr. Matt Jackson-McCabe, Chair and Professor, Philosophy and Comparative Religion